Carrara Marble
Porcelain Fire
Table

Product Description: Carrara Marble Porcelain Fire Table is made of a metal frame with marble design porcelain tile

Operational/Functional Aspects: The whole fire table is made of one piece of porcelain slab, so the veining patterns on all sides are connected, as a piece of art. The porcelain lid is included so the fire table turns into a coffee table when you need it. Lid storage sliding system included under the fire table. The marble design porcelain has the natural beauty of marble but not the cons of the marble: it is basically maintenance free. Porcelain is resistant to scratches, etching and stains, and it is also weather resistant.

Athena Fire Table

Product Description: The Athena Fire table brings style to outdoor heating. The thick floating stone-like tile top is supported by a stylish base featuring a ribbed or fluted texture on the all-metal frame. This low tank-out fire table is paired with a matching tank cover that, when nested with the fire table, creates a multi-level bunching table set. The tank cover can also be separated and used as an end table. Available in two finish combinations, the Athena fire tables add an eclectic twist to any set.

Operational/Functional Aspects: The Athena fire table features a large burner in the center of a single-piece tile top with roll over edges, creating the illusion of a thick floating top. The base is constructed in a unique ribbed metal that gives texture and softness to an otherwise boxy silhouette. The tank cover and fire table can be bunched together or separated for versatile configurations.

Colors of Finishes Available:
Available in Latte brown or Aged Stone grey.
